

ABOUT NJ AID FOR ANIMALS

NJ Aid for Animals is an all-volunteer 501 c3 animal charity receiving no government or state funding, operating 100% on private donations.

When you gift a donation to NJ Aid for Animals, you give something of value in exchange for other things of value — your donations in exchange for the good work NJ Aid for Animals does and the benefits it provides to the community. We facilitate a fair exchange and both YOU and we feel very good about our “gifts”.

The animals you met here today, Butters, Brie, Beans, Simba, Emily, Benny, Robyn and Grace are here because of YOUR generous donations. Because of YOUR generosity and compassion and your belief in NJ Aid for Animals, we can help more animals like these.

NJ Aid for Animals has been enriching animals lives since 2005 with a free vaccine, a dog house, a spay neuter or being rescued out of a bad situation.

BENNY

Benny was found in Camden with hot tar all over him. He sat with no treatment for 24 hours until NJ Aid for Animals arrived. We admitted him to hospital with oxygen, pain meds and antibiotics for infection. Benny had a slow recovery from the burns on his pads and his eye. As he got healthier, his fur grew back and he regained his vision. NJ Aid for Animals found Benny a wonderful home.

Our emergency medical fund is critically low and we count on donations to be able to help animals like Benny.

BUTTERS AND HER BABIES

Saved by NJ Aid for Animals

NJ Aid for Animals is always there for animals 24/7. We work on holidays, weekends and evenings. Our all volunteer organization works tirelessly because animals can't differentiate a holiday from a weekday or day from night. They need our help 24/7 which is why we need your help 24/7. NJ Aid for Animals was there for Butters, Brie and Beans when they had hours to live.

NJ Aid for Animals received an urgent call from a resident in Willingsboro, NJ. His Pomeranian was suffering from the contagious and fatal disease Parvovirus. He didn't want her anymore nor her two puppies. NJ Aid for Animals raced to meet the owners and dispatched Butter and her babies, Brie and Beans to the vet. All three pulled through and found loving homes.

Treating Parvo is extremely expensive and NJ Aid for Animals treats many dogs throughout the summer that would otherwise be euthanized. Your generous donations for our emergency medical fund helps us to help dogs like Butters, Beans and Brie.

FETCH. FIX. RETURN.

For almost a decade, NJ Aid for Animals has transported hundreds of dogs and cats from Camden for owners who have no transportation to get their animals fixed. The “Fetch” program goals include: increase the transport number; fix residents' animals; return and thus save animals' lives by decreasing the number of litters and reducing the numbers euthanized at the shelter.

Help with operating costs like gasoline, car repairs and insurance is urgently needed so we may continue this vital service for Camden animals.

LOST NO MORE

NJ Aid for Animals conceived an idea for a massive microchip program for animals in Camden. Microchips reunite lost and runaway animals with their families. There is a very low reclaim rate at the Camden shelter but now animal control can scan the dogs and cats when they are picked up and return them before they hit the shelter. This keeps space open at the shelter and more dogs from being euthanized. Also people who use dogs as bait or weapons and train the dogs to fight will be permanently identified. If the dog gets loose or is found dumped, the dog can be traced back to the owner (like guns with serial numbers) and charged. The ASPCA™ liked the idea so much they gave NJ Aid for Animals a $7,500 grant for microchips.

LIFE SAVING VACCINES FOR CAMDEN ANIMALS

For the last seven years, NJ Aid for Animals has brought life saving vaccines to residents of Camden through our innovative signature Pet Enrichment Program. NJ Aid for Animals conceived of this idea to bring services to people who have no other means. We solicit donations for vaccines throughout the year and every spring, we bring vets and volunteers to Camden to administer to any dog and cat that shows up a vaccine, a microchip, a collar or leash and low cost flea treatment. In 2013 we vaccinated and chipped over 500 dogs and cats at our vaccine clinics in Camden.

UPDATE ON EMILY

Remember Emily the blind pit who NJ Aid for Animals took when her benefactor died and the sanctuary she was sent to closed? Emily's foster loves her so much but can't afford to support Emily while she puts herself through vet school and works full time. So Emily is officially "adopted" by her foster while NJ Aid for Animals supports Emily. Em is allergic to most food so she eats a special diet. YOUR DONATIONS HELP US TO HELP DOGS LIKE EMILY. Please consider sponsoring Emily with a monthly pledge.

SIMBA

There are so many feral cats in Camden that many are struggling to eke out shelter and food. By spaying and neutering them, it gives them a better chance to live. NJ Aid for Animals is working with a resident who can trap but has no room for recovery. Every Monday this kind resident (with a trap borrowed from us), traps a cat, transports to the vet for fixing and brings to NJ Aid for Animals to recover. The following Monday she picks up the recovered cat and brings us a new one. It's a win win for everyone. Simba was lucky -- she got adopted and did not have to go back to the streets of Camden.

BILLBOARD FOR SPAY NEUTER

We were very happy to have Bernard Hopkins pose for this very effective billboard. Responses have been overwhelming and over 175 calls have come in from owners wanting to fix their pit bulls. YOU OR YOUR CORPORATION CAN SPONSOR A BOARD FOR AS LITTLE AS $400 FOR ONE MONTH. This is a great and inexpensive way to demonstrate your company's commitment to helping animals in the community particularly the pits that are so mistreated and maligned AND to partner with NJ Aid for Animals in our "fight" to "knockout" the overbreeding of pits that end up in the kill shelters.

SAVING GRACE

When Grace's owner took her own life, she left Grace and six other dogs behind. Tragically no rescue had room for that many at one time so NJ Aid for Animals took Grace. Grace had many medical issues including a large tumor on her jaw. We soothed her through her loss, got her fixed up medically and found her a great new home. Happily, all but two of the pups have found homes but they are safe.

DOG HOUSES VITAL FOR DOGS LEFT OUTSIDE

In partnership with Burger Fence Company, NJ Aid for Animals is able to provide warm shelter for dogs that are forced to live outside. Although we receive a large discount, without donations for the dog houses we can't afford to pay for them on our lean budget. With your help, NJ Aid for Animals can deliver a warm dog house to a lucky dog this winter.

LILA AND ROBYN

Remember Robyn? Emily's sister. Emily and Robyn came from a home in Philadelphia where a homicide happened and the dogs ended up in isolation at a shelter there then sent to a sanctuary and when the sanctuary closed, with nowhere else to go, NJ Aid for Animals took them both. This is Robyn with her "sister" Lila.
